THE STRIKE SPREADS.

Discouraging Effect of the Boycott of the Pullman Company.

JUDGE CALDWELL'S STRIKE ORDER

The Men of the Atchison Road, Who Are Employes of the Court, Must Obey Orders of Company Officials or Leave the Service.

CHICAGO, June 29.—The following message was received here by Receiver Wilson, of the Atchison road, from Judge Caldwell, of the United States circuit court, who is now in Michigan on a pleasure trip:

"The men in the employ of the receivers of the Atchison railway system must discharge all their usual and accustomed duties or quit the service of the receivers altogether, and permit other men to take their places who will discharge their duties. Any or all of the employes can quit the service of the court if they desire to do so, but when they do quit they must not interfere in any manner with the property or the operation of the road or men employed to take their places. Any such interference will be promptly dealt with as a contempt of court. The men who wish to continue in the service of the court must discharge all the duties appropriately and properly belonging to the service. A refusal to perform any part of those duties will compel their discharge and the employment of other men to take their places. All the powers and authority of the court will be vigorously exercised to enforce these reasonable rules.

"The men must understand that they cannot remain in the service of the receivers and refuse to perform any duty pertaining to that service. They must make their election, whether they will take their orders as to the cars to be switched and handled from President Dole or the court. If they elect to obey the orders of the former they may do so, but in that event they must understand that they are no longer in the service of the court, and that other men will be employed to take their places permanently, who will be guarded and protected in the discharge of their duties."

The general managers of two of the leading roads said today that they anticipated and were prepared for a general tie up of all the roads. There was nothing left for the railroads to do but to resist the boycott. They reserved the right to hear any man's case that was offered them, regardless of his business or political affiliations.

H E Foster chairman of the board of directors of the Chicago and Eastern Illinois railroad, in a communication to President Cleveland, of the A. R. U., says if the aims of the strike leaders are carried out wage workers will be reduced to absolute slavery, property be rendered valueless, and the result will be a revolution.

Several thousand men are thrown out of employment this morning at the stock yards by an order from the Knights of Labor for a strike because the employers refused to agree to a demand that freight cars of lines hauling Pullman cars should not be handled. The entire packing industry is completely paralyzed.

The effect will be so serious that the proprietors of the packing houses and the railroad officials refused to believe that any such action would be taken. About 400 switchmen, trackmen, number takers, firemen and engineers left their posts. The roads affected by the tie up in the yards include nearly every railroad entering running into Chicago.

Reports from various sections show that the strike is spreading rapidly. San Francisco is completely shut off by the strike from railroad communication with the outer world. The mass meeting of the trouble in Oakland where many trains and tons of mail and express are already tied up. Large quantities of fruit are going to waste in orchards and in steamers and on trains.

Superintendent J. C. Gilkeson of the Pullman car department of the Pennsylvania railroad in Jersey City, says that not the slightest trouble has been experienced in that section of the country on account of the Pullman boycott. There was excellent reason to believe, he said that none of the Pennsylvania company's lines would be affected.

President Dole, of the American Railway union, telegraphed to Terre Haute, Ind., for Chief Sargent, of the firemen, and the latter, who has been in Canada has started for Chicago. In view of the unfriendly attitude of Sargent to Debs' organization, much interest is felt as to the attitude of the firemen.

Master Workman Sovereign, of the Knights of Labor, who is at Des Moines, Ia., predicts the strike against the Pullmans will be the biggest one in the history of the country. He said the knights would fight it out with the railroad men to the bitter end.

At Pittsburg yesterday a number of men were summoned to go to Chicago to take strikers' places. Most of them were A. R. U. men or their sympathizers, however, and less than two score started for Chicago.

At Cairo, Ills., the boycott against the Pullman company has assumed serious proportions. Every railroad line entering the city is now involved, and not a wheel has turned since 6 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

The Pullman strike will not affect Canada. Officials of the Brotherhood of Engineers, Order of Railway Conductors and the Brotherhood of Trainmen there state that they intend to take no action whatever.

Telegrams were sent a short time ago from the A. R. U. headquarters in Chicago ordering all men on the Denver Rio Grande and Union Pacific roads out at once.

At St. Louis this morning the Missouri Pacific switchmen decided to stand by the strike switchmen. This resulted in a complete tie up of that road there.

At Bloomington, Ill., the east bound Northern Pacific train was tied up as a result of the strike. Not a wheel is turning on either division.

Wanted to Lynch the Taylors.

BROOKFIELD, Mo., June 28.—A lynching party was narrowly averted here yesterday. Sheriff Barton was expected in from St. Louis with George and William Taylor, wanted in this county for the murder of Otis Meeks and family near Browning. The sheriff, to avoid trouble, stopped at Mason City and placed them in jail there. When the train arrived at Brookfield 1,000 persons were at the depot, and fifty masked men rode up. When they discovered the prisoners were at Mason preparations to leave for that point were immediately made, but the idea was finally given up.

Another Daring Navigator.

NEW YORK, June 28.—Captain Frantsch, of Milwaukee, and his forty footschooner rigged cockleshell, the Mina, arrived here on his way from Milwaukee across the Atlantic to Stockholm. He is a six foot Swedish sailor, and built his boat especially for the adventure of crossing the lakes and the Atlantic alone. The boat looks like a flat bottomed skiff, her nose running clear out of the water, and drawing two feet aft. The peculiar shape is for the purpose of allowing the captain to adjust his tiller in a go-wheel arrangement and go to sleep. He sailed from Milwaukee April 26.

An Officer's Narrow Escape.

LITTLE FALLS, N. Y., June 29.—A desperate attempt was made to murder Louis Dowers, chief of police of the village of Ilion. At about 2 a. m. as the chief was on his way home, he heard two men talking in a driveway. He went in to investigate, when a big, burly fellow, shoved a revolver in Chief Dowers' face and fired, the ball entering his left shoulder. A short tussle ensued between the three men, and the chief was shot again, this time in the left hand. The desperadoes then ran away.

A Texas Brother's Revenge.

FORT WORTH, Tex., June 29.—Wm and Mr Al Waite, living two miles from Saltpeter Springs, were fired on during the night by a discharged negro, John Williams. Mrs. Waite was instantly killed and Mr Waite mortally wounded and will die. This morning the negro was captured by a church posse. An enraged mob took Williams to the public square where he was hanged to a telephone pole. Scott White brother of the wounded man, led the mob.

The Wage Question Settled.

HUNTINGDON, Pa., June 29.—An agreement between the miners and operators in the Huntingdon and Broad Top coal region has been reached on the question of semi-monthly wage payments, and yesterday all the men entered upon a general resumption. This agreement will effect about 600 men. The miners have accepted the compromise rate, and have discarded all grievances. Large numbers of coal cars are being sent into the district.

Depew's Resignation Accepted.

PARIS, June 29.—President Casimer-Perier has accepted the resignation of Premier Dupuy and the other members of the ministry to go into effect after the funeral of M Carnot on Sunday, on which occasion M Dupuy will deliver an oration in the Pantheon on behalf of the government. The president has asked Deputy Auguste Burdeau, who is his particular friend, to form a cabinet.

Rosebery's Defense of Horse Racing.

LONDON, June 29.—Lord Rosebery in reply to a letter sent him by the Anti-Gambling league, protesting against horse racing, says "My position is simply that of Cromwell, whose position was humbler than mine, and the strictness of whose principles cannot be questioned. I possess a few race horses. And I am glad when one of these happens to be a good one."

Fugitive Italians Suffering.

METZ, June 29.—About a thousand Italians who fled from France after the assassination of President Carnot because they were afraid they would be persecuted on account of the crime of their countryman, are camping in the open fields in the vicinity of this city. Most of them are without means, and are suffering many hardships.

Severe Hailstorm in Minnesota.

TRACY, Minn., June 29.—A severe storm passed over this place Wednesday night. A strip of country six miles wide, south of here, in Lyon and Murray counties, was literally wiped out by hail. The large farm of Hamilton & Co., of Winona, two miles south, is practically a wreck as far as crops are concerned.

CLARENCE, N. Y., Nov. 1893.—"I have used Gilmore's Aromatic Wine in my family, and for a debilitated system there is nothing to equal it in restoring vigor and strength, and for female weakness it stands without a rival. I most heartily recommend it to all who may be suffering from chronic malaria or biliousness."—Rev. E. J. Whitney. All druggists sell Gilmore's Aromatic Wine at $1 00 per bottle.

ANOTHER STAR FOR THE FLAG

The New Mexico Statehood Bill Passed by the House.

WASHINGTON, June 28.—The New Mexico statehood bill was passed by the house yesterday, practically in the same shape as it came from the committee, without any organized opposition being made to it. A number of bills and resolutions were passed in the morning hour, the most important being one allowing receivers and managers appointed by United States courts to be sued without permission from the appointing court, the same as corporations of which they were appointed receivers. At 4 15 p. m. the house was forced to adjourn for want of a quorum.

Only two sections of the tariff bill remain to be acted upon by the senate. On the final vote on the income tax only three Democrats, Messrs Hill and Murphy of New York and Smith of New Jersey, voted in favor of the motion to strike it from the bill, while six Republicans, Massbrough (N. D.), Mitchell (Ore.), Pettigrew, Power, Shoup and Teller voted against the motion. The three Populists also went on record in favor of the income tax. The provision so vigorously attacked by Mr. Gray on Wednesday and by Mr Teller and others yesterday was modified so that the inspection of books of corporations should not take place unless there was grounds for the belief that the returns made were fraudulent, and that this belief was supported by affidavits of the collector, in which event the corporation would be requested to produce its books, and if denied the collector should make his estimate from such information as he was able to obtain, and add a 50 per cent penalty on account of the refusal of the corporation to permit an examination of the books. The increase of the whisky tax to $1 10 and the extension of the bonded period to eight years were agreed to. Only one of the two sections of the tariff bill remaining will meet opposition—the one providing for the repeal of the reciprocity provisions of the McKinley law.

Singular Tragedy at Belleville, N. J.

BELLEVILLE, N. J., June 29.—By a single blow of a club Theodore Jerolemon, a prominent resident of this place, killed John Bean, of Harrison, N. J., yesterday afternoon. Bean, with three companions, attempted to take some cherries from two boys who were gathering the fruit in Jerolemon's orchard. The boys called for help and Jerolemon went to the rescue. The men fled and the latter gave chase. Bean ran to a bushel ware house, and as he was bent over it Jerolemon aimed a blow at him. Just then a strand of the wire broke and Bean fell back. The club struck him squarely on the top of the head, crushing in the skull. Bean dropped like a log, and died shortly after. Jerolemon at once gave himself up to the police, claiming that the killing was accidental.

Not Nominated for Senator.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., June 28.—The Democratic state convention nominated Assistant Secretary of State Edwin F. Uhl for United States senator for the long term and ex-Lieutenant Governor John Strong for the short term, both by acclamation. Ex-Congressman Spencer Fisher was nominated for governor by acclamation. The other nominees are Secretary of state, Lewis F. Ireland, treasurer Otto C. Karste, auditor general Frank H. Gillett, attorney general James O'Hara, commissioner state land office, Albert J. Jennings, member of state board of education Michael Devereaux.

Murder and Suicide in Brooklyn.

BROOKLYN, June 29.—There was a murder and suicide at the residence of J. Sautter, at 12 Beaver street, yesterday afternoon. Michael Gessner, 27 years of age, an employe of Sautter, murdered Sautter's daughter Anna, a pretty girl of 17. After shooting the girl twice Gessner shot himself in the forehead. Sautter carried on a tendering business, and Gessner became infatuated with the girl, who refused to accept his advances. The parents of the girl denied that there was any love affair between the two, and are at a loss as to what reason Gessner had for taking the girl's life.

Shoemaker Has Failed.

NEW YORK, June 29.—Richard Worthington, of the Worthington Publishing company, was yesterday arrested by the sheriff on an attachment issued upon the application of Shoemaker & Co., who claim that Worthington drew above his salary from 1891 to 1894, when the company went into a receiver's hands, $60,240 and that he only returned $40,164, leaving a balance of $20 085, for which the receiver brings suit. The money was used, it is claimed, for his household expenses and paying premiums of insurance.

Tried to Blow Up a Newspaper Office.

MONTREAL, June 29.—Shortly after mid night an attempt was made to blow up The Witness office with dynamite. A loud explosion simultaneous with a shattering of plate glass startled the neighborhood and an alarm of fire quickly followed. The Witness is an ultra Protestant prohibition daily, and has at all times many enemies. The aim of the dynamiters was evidently the press room, as that portion of the building was badly shattered although so far as known at present the presses were not injured. The police are now investigating.

DENIES ALLEGIANCE TO ROYALTY.

A Labor Leader in Parliament Opposes an Address of Congratulation on the Birth of Another Royalist—Harsh Criticism of the Prince of Wales.

LONDON, June 29.—There was an unexampled scene in the house of commons last evening when Sir William Vernon Harcourt, supported by Mr Balfour, moved an address of congratulation to the queen upon the birth of an heir to the Duke of York. The motion was about to be put when amid ejaculations of surprise from all parts of the house, James Keyer Hardie, a Democrat and Socialist, and probably the most prominent of the labor members of parliament, rose and said:

"I owe allegiance to no hereditary ruler. The motion proposes to raise the importance of an event of every day occurrence. I am delighted to learn that the child is fairly healthy. I shall be pleased to join in the ordinary congratulations if I meet the child's parents. But when the house of commons, representing the nation, is asked to join in congratulations, then, in the interest of the nation, I protest."

"There is one aspect of the question which concerns the house of commons. A cabinet minister was required to be present upon this interesting occasion. I submit that such a proceeding is not calculated to enhance the dignity of the house in the eyes of the nation."

(Vehement interruptions and cries of "Order!" "Rot!").

"You may say 'rot,'" continued Hardie, "but if you mixed with those you represent you would find that the people view this matter in a different manner. It seems to me some protest should be made in this connection. It is a matter of small concern to me whether the future ruler of this country is a genuine article or a spurious one. The motion was made because the child was born in the royal family, and the house has a right to ask what particular blessing the royal family has conferred upon the nation. We are told that the queen has ruled for half a century. I beg to correct that by saying that her majesty has reigned, and not ruled.

"There is the Prince of Wales. What special blessing has he conferred upon the nation that we should rejoice with him?"

Colonel Saunderson, the great Orange leader, here interposed and made a scene of great excitement in the house, and moved that the honorable member from Northumberland, (Hardie) be no longer heard. (Loud cheers).

Sir William Harcourt said that he hoped Colonel Saunderson would not press his motion and Hardie was allowed to continue. He added:

"I know nothing to the career of her royal highness which commends itself especially to me. We are told that a dense light beats upon the throne, but sometimes we catch glimpses of her royal highness on the race course. We know such things and that is that as the Duke of Cornwall he draws 40,000 yearly from property in London."

The speaker here arose and said that the honorable member must confine himself to discussing the resolution.

Hardie thereupon resumed, saying: "The house is asked to rejoice because a child is born, but up to the present there is no means of knowing his qualifications to reign over this great empire. It is strange that people who have so much to say about the hereditary element in another place should be so willing now to endorse it in this parliament instance. The principle is the same in both cases. This child will be surrounded by sycophants and flatterers, and will be taught to believe himself superior to creation. In due course of time he will tour the world, with rumors of morganatic marriages in his train."

(Vociferous cries of dissent.)

"As the house has not found time to vote condolence with the widows, orphans and others who are suffering from the terrible colliery calamity in Wales, I protest against the present indecency."

The motion was then put, Hardie alone protesting, and it was adopted by loud and prolonged cheering. The budget discussion was then resumed.

SUGAR SCHEDULE CHANGES

Senator Blanchard, of Louisiana, Is the Only Objector.

WASHINGTON, June 29.—The amended sugar schedule, which will probably be offered when the tariff bill is taken up in the senate, has been put into shape by Senator Jones. It was accepted by all to whom it was shown except Senator Blanchard. The amendment as prepared changes the date when the sugar schedule shall go into effect from the first day of January to the time of the passage of the bill, and provides for a continuation of a part of the bounty for the present year, giving nine-tenths of a cent bounty per pound on sugar testing above 90 degrees by the polariscope, and eight-tenths of a cent on sugar testing below 90 degrees and above 80 degrees. The secretary of the treasury is also authorized to refrain from imposing the additional duty of one-tenth of a cent upon sugar imported from countries paying an export bounty where it is demonstrated to his satisfaction that the producer has not received the bounty.

Senator Blanchard's objection is understood to be based upon the ground that a part of the bounty of two cents for the present year is withdrawn but the aim of the framers of the bill is to avoid giving double protection to this article, and they agree that if the duty is to go into effect immediately the bounty should be abated to the extent of the protection afforded by the 40 per cent. duty which the sugar schedule as at present arranged will afford. There are one or two Democratic members of the finance committee to whom the amendment has not yet been submitted.

The developments of the day confirm the report of the conference between Senator Irby and the three Populist senators. Allen Kyle and Peffer. They will oppose the differential duty of one-third of a cent a pound on refined sugar, and may carry their opposition to the extent of antagonizing any duty at all on sugar.

Attempt to Wreck a Train.

OTTAWA, Ont., June 28.—An attempt was made to wreck the west bound Canadian Central train from Montreal. A few miles this side of Buckingham, about twenty miles from Ottawa, a large stick of timber, which would take several men to lift, was planted in a culvert. Had the culvert not given way the train would certainly have been wrecked. As it was, the locomotive was raised several feet in the air, and it is miraculous that it and the cars were not derailed. There were a large number of passengers on the train. Two tramps are in custody on complaint.

Beating Attempted Assassination.

ATLANTIC CITY, June 29.—J. R. Ross, the "Cow boy Evangelist," and his wife, who were arrested Wednesday night charged with disorderly conduct in holding a meeting on Atlantic avenue, were released on bail yesterday and arrested again last night on a state warrant, and held in bail. They gave bond and were released, after which they immediately held another meeting in an open lot, at which they denounced in the most unmeasured terms the city authorities and the local newspapers.

Crushed to Death Under His Engine.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., June 28.—A west bound local freight on the Kansas City, Memphis and Birmingham road jumped the track near Horse Creek, and was wrecked. The engine turned down an embankment. Engineer Beissiair escaped by jumping, but was badly injured. Fireman Jack Hale was caught under the locomotive and scalded and crushed to death. A brakeman was badly injured. Seven cars were wrecked and much damage done.

Senator Carey Urges Woman Suffrage.

ALBANY, June 29.—The question of granting suffrage to women came up in an unexpected manner yesterday before the committee on suffrage, when United States Senator Carey, of Wyoming, appeared and spoke at length in its favor. He favored the women to have state and urged that this state try it. He scoffed at the idea advanced that bad women would rule the ballot.

Presidential Nominations.

CHICAGO, June 29.—Three female suffragists, Mrs. Sarah Hoskett Stevenson, Harriet Alexander and Florence W. Hunt, were in command yesterday in the Presidential insanity hearing. They testified that the prisoner is an imbecile and that his brain is not developed. Mrs. Prendergast, the mother of the prisoner, testified that there had been insanity in the family.

VICTORIES FOR YALE.

Harvard Left Far Behind in the University Race.

HANDICAPPED BY BAD STEERING.

Had Harvard Been Equal to Yale at the Car Coxswain Day's Erratic Steering Would Have Beaten Them—Yale Freshmen Defeat Columbia and Harvard.

NEW LONDON, Conn., June 29.—It was 5 o'clock last evening when the tug Manhasset, with every space on board crowded with newspaper men, started up the river to view the beginning of the great university race between Yale and Harvard. With her went the United States revenue cutter Dexter and the tug America. Half an hour later both the Yale and Harvard crews were quickly in place side by side, ready for the word. It came, and both sets of oars struck the water together.

As had been expected, Harvard started in with a fast stroke, 40 to the minute, hoping to break Yale's heart in the first mile. Yale responded gamely with 36 strokes, and kept right abreast of Harvard. For a furlong, perhaps, the boats rowed nip and tuck. Then Yale gradually drew away from the Harvardites. At the half mile she was already five seconds ahead, a full boat's length, and her lead steadily grew.

At the mile Harvard's stroke had dropped to 36 while Yale still kept on at the 36 rate with which she started. There seemed to be no doubt that it was Yale's race. Her stroke was steady and passed the mile twelve minutes ahead of Harvard. Here both crews began to redouble their stroke. Yale's dropping to 38 and Harvard's to 34. But while Yale's strokes were deep and strong, and each jumped on to the preceding one so as to send the boat smoothly and steadily through the water, Harvard's work was ragged. At each stroke the Harvard boat would jump forward with a perceptible jerk, which would be repeated when the next stroke came. After the first half mile Harvard's men were never in perfect stroke. Purdon and Bullard, pulling bow and No. 2, were always just a little behind the rest, while Mooney, No. 7, pulled on if he did not care whether he kept time or not.

Harvard men all feathered well, although rather too high for the best results, but their work in the boat was very bad. If they had been perfect oarsmen, however, they would still have lost the race by their steering. Whether Coxswain Day became rattled by seeing his boat fall so far behind, or whether some more mysterious cause was at work, it is impossible to say, but from the mile flag on the Harvard boat managed across the stream in the most extraordinary manner. As the two boats approached the two and a half mile flag, Yale in the lead, it became apparent that something was about to occur. The Harvard boat went nearer and nearer the scaff, and from the pilots' boat went up a sort of horror stricken murmur, "He's going to hit."

Hit it he did, the starboard oars catching the Seguoit three feet from their ends and knocking it back and forth in the water. The sudden shock nearly threw the Harvard men from their seats, and for a moment it looked as if their part of the race was to end right there. Nothing shows how game they all were better than the quick recovery from this undeserved disaster and the way in which they closed up what the momentary stop had lost them. For a moment they almost seemed to gain upon Yale. They were 40 seconds behind at the three mile flag, and at the fourth they were only 41 behind.

It was a game and splendid effort, but it could not last. Their stroke which had risen to 38, dropped rapidly to 32, while the heavy way in which they handled their oars showed that they were very tired. So, too, were the Yale boys but they showed it less, being heavy in the victory as never at head. They crossed the line thirty lengths ahead of Harvard.

The Yale men sat up straight and strong after the finish, none of them showing signs of weakness, but three of Harvard's men dropped forward over their oars, utterly exhausted by the long and hopeless struggle.

The defeated Harvard crew returned up the river in their steam launch their boat being towed behind them. On arrival at the Harvard boat Townsend and Stevenson were in the fore and part of the launch, Stevenson half sitting and half lying over the desk. The men alighted from the launch, and trainers and handlers were obliged to assist Stevenson and Townsend from the boat the former, when left by himself in the center of the boat, stumbling and falling in a heap.

Official time by half miles:

Distance	Yale's Time.	Harvard's Time.
First half	3 31½	3 39½
Mile	7 26	7 37
Mile and a half	9 43	9 54
Two miles	11 47	12 00
Two and a half	14 14	14 31
Three	17 17	18 01
Three and a half	20 [illegible]	21 42
Four miles	23 17	24 40

This was Yale's second victory for the day, for Yale '97 won the freshman triangular boat race at noon in as pretty a two-mile match as was ever rowed over the course on the Thames. Harvard was outclassed, and was never in the struggle after the oars struck the water. Columbia, on the other hand, made a game uphill fight, and yielded to fate only on the last few lengths. The official time as given out by Referee Fowler was: Yale, 11:31; Columbia, 11:51, Harvard, 11:59.

HE WOULDN'T VANISH

JUMPING JOE AS DESCRIBED BY THE NEW ARTEMUS WARD.

He Is Interviewed by a Stranger, Who Decides That It Is Not Wise to Linger and Be Shot, So He Meets His Fate Elsewhere. A Talk With His Brother.

I was smoking my pipe at the mouth of my dugout in the Cherokee strip when a feller cums gallopin up on an Arkansaw mule and nearly rides over me afore he checks up to inquire:

"Stranger, mebbe ye ar' the reptile what thinks he's got a claim on these yere 60 acres of fertility spread out afore us?"

"I hev the honor to be that humble worm of the dust," sez I, sizin him up as a claim jumper and a bad man.

"How long will it take ye to bid good-by to that dugout and vanish from this locality?"

"Fur why?"

"Bekase this yere claim suits me, and I'm goin to jump it."

"Hain't you no feelin's for an orphan?" sez I as I reached down and pulled up my ole shotgun.

"Nary one, and I'll gin ye jest five minits to spread yer wings and fly," he tenderly replies.

"What about the law?" sez I, feelin kinder lonesome to think I might hev to put a stop to his prancing around and be obleeged to bury him to boot.

"WON'T YE LINGER AND BE SHOT?"

"The law be durned! When a feller wants anything in this kentry and has got sand in his craw to back him up, he takes it. Are ye comin out o' that and take a skate?"

"Stranger," sez I, thinkin I might possibly touch his heart strings and realizin that I had no shovel to dig his grave with, "don't be takin no risks with me when thar's a tenderfoot on the next 40 above who kin be skeered outer his hole with one hoot. All ye've got to do is to ride up thar and holler once, and away he'll fly. In fact, he's sick of the blamed kentry and just waitin fur somebody to tell him to go. As fur me, I've cum to stay. I hain't dangerous except on one day of the week, but this happens to be the day. I dug this hole with a shingle and hev got a strong affection fur it, and as fur those 60 acres of land I've got to use 'em to grow my terbacker on."

"Whoopee!" he yells as he makes his ole beast cavort around and pulls out his watch.

"I gin ye jest two minits in which to vanish."

With that I sees that he had no human heart strings, and I lifts up my gun and gits a fa'r bead on his eye afore he drops to the game. He looks very solemn fur a minit or two and then humbly asks, "Stranger, ar' that a bony fide gun?"

"She ar'," sez I.

"What's the contents?"

"Buckshot mostly."

"And who might ye be most every day in the week?" he softly continues.

"They mostly calls me Jumpin Joe. D'ye want my claim as bad as ye did a minit or two ago?"

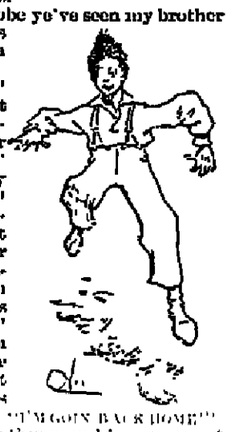
"I don't," he sez, with great blandness. "No, I don't want nuthin ye kin help me to by pullin on the trigger of that gun! Humbly hopin fur yer fuchur happiness and prosperity, I will now bid ye farewell!"

"Won't ye linger and be shot?"

"No, thankee, though I'm just as much obleeged. Once more adew!"

He rides away in the direction of the tenderfoot's dugout, and purty soon thar was the noise of shootin over that way. I was gittin ready to go over and see if it was a case of suicide when up cums a feller on a white hoss and looks all around and peacefully sez:

"Stranger, mebbe ye've seen my brother Tom a-passin this yere way on a mowl?"



"Mebbe I hev," sez I. "Ar' that the late lamented's animal over thar on the hill?"

"She surtinly be, or I'm a poet! From your language I take it that my brother Tom hain't cavortin round on top this arth as much as he was?"

"I hain't surtin about it, but I've got an idea that his cavortin days ar' nearly over." "I'M GOIN BACK HOME!"

"Did ye hev anythin again him, stranger? Anythin so powerful that ye felt it yer dooty to make him cease his prancin?"

"Oh, no. He called yer to jump my claim, but findin I was a jumpin man my self he rid over to bulldoze the redheaded chap on the hill."

"And ye've heard shootin?"

"I hev. I was about to go over to see who's gun went off first. If ye hain't got no pressin engagement, ye might go along."

"With all my heart," sez he, and we went.

When we got to the rise of the hill, we seen the redheaded man about a mile away and headin fur Kansas, while thar was a sign in front of the dug out readin, "Jump and be durned, fur I'm goin back home!" A leetle ways off lay the chap who had so lately bid me a fond adew, and I sez to the feller with me:

"Was the late lamented yer only brother in the world?"

"My only one!" he sadly replies.

"If I'd a-knowed that, I wouldn't hev run him up again a redheaded man."

"Oh, that's all right! Ye felt it yer dooty, and I can't complain. We can't be stoppin to ask whose brother a man is when dooty is urgin us onward and upward."

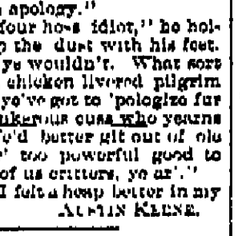
"Will your loss be his gain, stranger?" I asks as the survivin brother continued to look sorrowful.

"I'm doubtful," sez he. "He's out o' Cherokee straight 'nuff, but what sort of kentry he's struck beyand I can't figger on. Would ye hev any objeckshuns to stay to the funeral?"

"Not a one. I'll even help dig the grave and be one o' the mourners."

We found the tenderfoot's shovel and soon completed the buryin. While we were at it the survivin brother observed that Tom had jumped eight claims in two weeks, but in the midst of life he was in death. He said he would take up the trail of the redheaded man and try and pop him over, and as he was ready to go and we shook hands he said:

"Don't go for to waste in any grass seed on the grave or usin up lumber for a headboard. Ye've ben put to a heap o' trouble as is is."



"HE'S OUT O' CHEROKEE STRAIGHT 'NUFF."

"Wal, I'd like to say sunthin to sorter console ye," sez I, feelin kinder mean about things.

"Oh, don't menshun it. Don't menshun it," he answers as he rides away. "Fact is, ye've bin to so much trouble and bin so nice about it that I'm almost ashamed to look ye in the face. So long to ye, and may ye git yer reward in the next world if not in this."

I still sorter felt that I'd bin a leetle bit hasty and owed somebody an apology or sunthin, and when a feller cums along on foot, carryin a lot of household truck on his back and lookin mighty weary of this life, I stops him and sez:

"Stranger, ye might hev a brother out yere in this Cherokee strip?"

"Yes, I hev," he replied away down his dusty throat.

"And that brother might cum along and try to jump my claim?"

"That would be him."

"And he'd meet the jumpinest man in Cherokee and fall dead with surprise."

"But what's the plut ye wanter make?"

"Just this: If I'd helped to dig his grave and acted as one of the mourners and expressed my sorrow to the survivin relashuns, would I owe anybody anythin besides?"

"Anythin as how?" he yells, beginnin to git mad.

"Anythin as an apology."

"Ye must be a four hoss idiot," he hollers as he kicks up the dust with his feet.

"No, of course ye wouldn't. What sort of a knockkneed, chicken livered pilgrim ar' ye that ye feel ye've got to 'pologize fur shootin any cussin kerous cuss who yearns fur yer claim? Ye'd better git out of ole Cherokee. Ye ar' too powerful good to rub agin the rest of us critters, ye ar'."

And arter that I felt a heap better in my mind. AUSTIN KRENE.

It's the Standard Fashion, in washing and cleaning, to use Pearline. Certainly the enormous amount of it used every year proves it. Millions of women use nothing else. And when you see a fashion so universal, so sensible, and so unchangeable, why not adopt it?

There are many things that try to imitate Pearline. Some of them may be more or less successful for a while—but the public is learning. "You can't fool all the people all the time"—and the women who want the best thing to wash with, one that is absolutely safe, will continue to use Pearline—made only by James Pyle, New York. 402

"America's Greatest Men and Women."

AMERICA'S GREATEST MEN AND WOMEN.

AMERICA'S GREATEST MEN AND WOMEN.

MR. WILSON TALKS.

MY Name is Wilson; I do an insurance business on LaSalle street, in Chicago Ill., and I live in Evanston, Ill. Evanston is what was originally a scattering population on a pretty point on Lake Michigan, esteemed years ago far from the city of Chicago, but now one of the varied towns which may go within it by vote of the population.

I am married and have a wife and one child. That child is a boy (I suppose I should feel the same solicitude if it was a girl), and I have a father's natural fancies as to what must be the best thing to give that child the right kind of futelligence, and so divert his course that he may succeed in life. I have studied a great deal upon the subject. My own experience would not be of great value, because I have succeeded only to the limit of the average man and am barely established; still, I own the house and lot upon which I live, and am feeling perfectly safe in meeting the exigencies of the year. I want the boy to take a broader view than I did to be a bigger man in the world. I have studied how to teach him to do that, and be has done pretty well, as far as the preliminaries go. Now, I have thought over what s should say to him and have sometimes been puzzled. I could not very well tell himwhat to do. I wanted to tell him whatI needed but what I did not learn myself when I was of his age, and what my father did not know how to tell me, or else was not thoughtful enough to do so. I wanted to tell him how to follow the example of those who have succeeded at the present time and under the circumstances which ordinarily affect a young man struggling in this Republic established on this comparatively new world to-day. I wanted to tell him just what he had better do to get along well, and to point out to him what had been done by the people who were successful at the present time.

Of course, the record of the people of any time past would not be of so much value, because circumstances must necessarily have been different when they were alive. I feel confident, though, that if I could learn, some way and somehow, what the people who are so successful to day have done and how they did it, I could give to my boy such advice as would make his own life at least as far removed from failure as justified by the natural ability he may possess.

I looked around for some authority which I might consult in order to give him the facts most essential with this idea of mine in mind, but I could find no e until I discovered that a great publishing firm in Chicago had decided to bring out a book giving the photographs of all the people who are prominent in America to-day. Here was what I wanted. The book, as I have learned, is going to be published in 16 parts, 16 pages to each, with a recent photograph on each page of some active leading American man or woman of to-day, while underneath appears the story of that same person's life—the story telling what that person did, and how the ends attained were eventually accomplished. Here was what I wanted; here was what I needed in various ways; here was what I was certainly seeking in order to obtain the information with which to educate my boy ank secure for him that knowledge which will give him a source of thought and make him prominent in the world.

I have the first sheets of this work. It is a graphic story of America's Greatest Men and Women, told in each instance on a single page underneath a photograph of recent date, which conveys to the eye an idea of what that person is. To me the photograph tells even more than the suggestive record beneath; and yet it is odd how in each instance the correct story corresponds with the expression upon the face which is reproduced in the portrait above. I do not know how the series will end. I know very little about this new feature of the newspaper people; I know nothing about the publishers and their expecations, but I do know this: that if the series so begun should be continued to its practical, ordinary good sense end—and I don't care whether that will include 200 or 700 of America's Greatest Men and Women, which is the title of the book—I do know this, that for the ordinary, active and alert business man—I will certainly say far more for the student or the literary man, or the politician or the statesman—for all these I will say it will be simply the most valuable and the most remarkable book produced in modern history The wonder is that some one has not thought of it before. Yet no one seems to have done so since the days of Plutarch. Plutarch knew something. That shrewd old fellow knew that all who would get out of the drift, all who would accomplish great things, wanted to know every detail of the lives of those who had better luck or more courage or a broader brain than their fellows; but I am no authority on these points. I only know that there is produced a second Plutarch's Lives, that its biographies are shrewd, graphic and curt, and written without bias and without prejudice. I only know that there was a Plutarch—God bless the old fellow—and that there is this modern work.

This is the work I am going to give to my boy. I am going to make him read it thoroughly. The work is announced as consisting of 16 Parts, with 16 pages and 16 photographs in each part, and when bound, the whole series will make a great volume of 256 pages, the like of which has never been equaled. It is the story of the personal character of the men and women who are making the nation's history at this particular time. What a work this is! Do you imagine that I would miss it for my boy, or, incidentally, for myself?

$70 For a Cup of Coffee.

They were talking about high prices which they had paid for luxuries at different times. One man had given $4 for a can of peaches in the days of 1849. Another, who had raised cattle on the plains in 1869, had bet against a cowboy for a bunch of grapes until the price was $5.50, but he got the grapes. One of the party had exchanged $625 for a pair of shoes, but he had been an officer, and the money was in Confederate bills, which weren't worth their weight in paper.

"And I," said the youngest man of the group, "in these days of peace and progress, quick communication and abundance of supply, have paid $70 for a small cup of coffee."

He waited for some one to challenge him, but some pretty big stories had been told, and the group of romancers felt equal to anything.

"Yes," he said, "a friend gave me $10 to bet on a horse at the race track. I was in the clubhouse getting luncheon, and looking at my watch saw that the race in which his horse was entered would be run in seven minutes. I pride myself on making close connections, and as I wanted a cup of coffee with which to finish my luncheon I asked for one. I bolted the coffee, started hurriedly down the steps and then went on a run for the betting ring. Just as I reached it the bell sounded, and the cry went up, 'They're off!' leaving me standing before a bookmaker with the $10 in my uplifted hand.

"My friend's horse won. He paid 7 to 1. I took $70 out of my bank account, handed it to my friend the next day, congratulated him and never told him that his gain was my loss. My watch was two minutes slow."—New York Tribune.

Scarce.

It was a lovely day.

Fleecy clouds floated lazily across the field of vision, while ever and anon a sea gull swooped down from the empyrean regions and dipped his wings into the salt spray.

"Dearest," faltered the man in the buff shoes, "will you love me always?"

"Yes"——

A sigh of petulance struggled a moment in her swelling heart, fluttered to her lips and died there.

——"the way men are keeping away from this blamed old place, I suppose I shall."

The sea gull shrieked and took another plunge.—Detroit Tribune.

Force of Habit.

"The fact is, sir," wrote the angry man to the man who made him so, "your conduct in this whole matter has been utterly beneath contempt. You are a mean, pettifogging, grasping Shylock, sir. You are a disreputable, unmitigated sneak."

"There," said he to himself, looking over what he had written, "I fancy I've given it to him pretty straight." And then he proceeded to sign the letter, "I am, sir, your obedient servant, John Wigglesworth."—Somerville Journal.

Ships That Pass In the Night.

"What kind of a ship is that?" she asked as a vessel crossed the moon's track while they were gazing out upon the sea.

"That is a schooner yacht," he replied.

"Ah," she murmured, "how I should like to have a schooner yacht!"

"Well," said he, "as you cannot have a schooner yacht, what do you say to a little smack?" And he suited the action to the word, and she was satisfied.—New York Press.

She (nestling up to him)—I know we are poor, papa, but Charlie says that love will make a way.

"Eh?"

"So easily moved. See?"—Chicago Tribune.

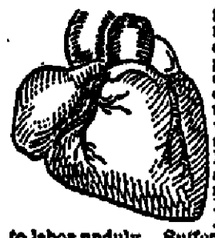
THE HEART



is liable to great functional disturbance through sympathy. Dyspepsia, or Indigestion, often causes it to palpitate in a distressing way. Nervous Prostration, Debility and Impoverished Blood, also cause its too rapid pulsations. Many times, Spinal Affections, cause it to labor unduly. Sufferers from such Nervous Affections often imagine themselves the victims of organic heart disease.

ALL NERVOUS DISEASES, as Paralysis, Locomotor Ataxia, Epilepsy, or Fits, St. Vitus's Dance, Sleeplessness, Nervous Prostration, Nervous Debility, Neuralgia, Melancholia and Kindred Ailments, are treated as a specialty, with great success, by the Staff of the Invalids' Hotel. —Typhoid fever has broken out in the family of D. Whitcomb, at Bran Hill. His youngest child died, last week. The house has been quarantined.

—Mrs. James F. Calbreath, Jr., of Monticello, who has been in Colorado, some time, for the benefit her health, died there, Sunday.

—Jesse Parks, an old and well known citizen, died at White Sulphur Springs, Friday, of inflammation of the bowels, aged seventy-four years.

—During the shower, Sunday afternoon, Lightning struck a tree about twenty feet from Jerry Hotchkiss's home at Lawbeach, and from the tree glanced into the cellar, where it did considerable damage. Mr. and Mrs. Hotchkiss, who were in the house, were severely shocked as were also their two daughters, Genie and Vinnie. A horse in the barn about thirty feet away was also stunned by the shock.

A Circus Coming—Lightning's Work—The Knife Works to shut Down During July—A Celebration on the Fourth

Correspondence ARGUS and MAIL-POST

—A circus for the 5th of July is something for Walden people to look forward to.

—Lightning played havoc here during the storm of Tuesday. Several houses were struck, but fortunately no one was injured nor was the damage great.

—Stages will be run between Orange Lake and this village to convey passengers to the electric road.

—William Hall, the liveryman, will put on a stage between this place and the lake. He has his vehicle newly painted and it looks good.

—Charles J. Dillon has a brand new awning in front of his New York restaurant. It is just what he needed.

—Albert S. Lambier, who recently was admitted to the bar, has opened a law office in the Fowler building, on Orange avenue, and reports business good.

—The ARGUS and MERCURY representative, while talking with William C. Hart, Secretary of the Wallkill Valley Farmers' Association, gleaned the fact that he would have lots of "competition." I wonder wherein Mr. Hart could find competition between newspaper reporters. Newspaper men, as a rule, Mr. Hart, are far from being blind, for they see much more than you credit them with.

—George Matthews, Jr., is home for his summer vacation.

—It is said that the Bradley—New York knife works, will close down during July to take inventory.

—Independence day is upon us, when the small boy expects to blow his face full of powder before breakfast.

—A so-called Fourth of July celebration will be held here on the ball grounds. The Walden base ball club will give the performance.

BISHOP POLK'S QUICK WIT.

How He Saved Himself from Capture When Inside the Federal Lines.

Bishop Polk of Louisiana, who served as a staff officer in the Confederate army, had one adventure on the battle of Perryville which is best told in his own words. He says:

About 4 o'clock shortly after the arrival of Liddell's division, I observed a body of men whom I believed to be Confederate cavalry at an angle to the turnpike and firing obliquely at the newly arrived troops.

"Dear me," said I, "this is very sad. It must be stopped." So I turned round, but could find none of my young men, who were about on various messages. I determined to ride up myself and settle the matter. I cautioned up to the colonel of the regiment, asked him in angry tones what he meant by shooting at his friends and desired him to cease doing so at once.

"I don't think there can be any mistake about it," he said with some surprise. "I am sure they are the enemy."

"Enemy!" I said. "Why, I have only just left them myself. Cease firing, sir! What is your name, sir?"

"My name is Colonel —— of the ——, and pray, sir, who are you?"

Then, for the first time, I saw to my astonishment that he was a Federal, and that I was in the rear of the Federal lines. I knew there was no hope but in reasoning it out, my dark blouse and the increasing obscurity befriending me. So I approached quite close to him, shook my fist in his face and said,

"I'll soon show you who I am. Cease firing at once!"

I then turned my horse and cantered slowly down the line, shouting in an authoritative manner to the Federals to cease firing.

At the same time I experienced a disagreeable sensation like wearing upon my back and calculating how many bullets could lie between my shoulders. I was afraid to increase my pace till I got to a small copse, and then I put the spurs in and galloped back to my men. I rode up to the senior officer and said to him, "Colonel, I have the honor to present those rebel lowes pretty closely, and there is no mistake about their being Federals!"—Youth's Companion.

FRIDAY, JUNE 29, 1894.

A government report estimates the drinking on the sums for the sorted increase in intensity in Ireland, in recent years.

The Western cyclone season opens with the ghastly record of ten persons killed and many injured by a cyclone of wind storms which swept over eastern Kansas and southern South Dakota, Wednesday night.

A suit of the big searchlights on Sandy Hook, once last night in a dense fog, showed that the light, powerful as it is, was useless for purposes of safe navigation, however, once a steamship lost its way.

The Senate, yesterday, by a vote of 39 to 34, adopted the amendment of the Senate to the tariff bill. Senators Murphy and Hill voted with Democratic Senators on this, but the three Populist Senators and all Republicans, Blackburn, Brown, of Georgia, Jones, Berry, Gorman, Kenny and Vilas, voted with the Democrats in favor of the amendment.

Official morality tends to politics but it is just as well to remember that of the thirteen officials of the Fire Test police department, who have been removed by the testimony taken before the Lexow committee, eight are Republicans and only five Democrats. Republicanism don't rub much of a figure in New York city's government and according to the above showing is a lucky thing for New York city that that they do not.

Senator Hill's fight against the income tax shows how little influence even able speeches, bristling with strong arguments, exert on the proceedings of legislative bodies. No man could have made a better fight than Mr. Hill. He was right, ready on every point, and marshaled his arguments in most effective form, and yet he did not influence or change a single vote, for Senators Murphy and Hill, who voted against the tax on incomes, were both known to be opposed to the tax before Mr. Hill began his speech.

Hon. McKnight, temporary chairman of the Michigan Democratic State Convention, said in his speech, "we are here, to-day, not to nominate a winning ticket but to condemn the action of the United States Senate." A strange admission to make and one not calculated to inspire the delegates with enthusiasm. And the worst of it all is that it is painfully true that the action of the Senate in tinkering with tariff reform has taken from the Democrats of Michigan all possibility of victory and to rebuke the Senate, useless and unsatisfactory as such a rebuke must be, is almost the only thing that was left for the convention to do.

SERIOUS RESULT OF A FLY'S BITE.

A Middletown Man Has a Narrow Escape from Blood Poisoning.

Three or four days ago, Mr. George W. Hall, of this city, felt a sudden twinge of pain in his thumb, and saw a fly looking at a small sore on the thumb. He killed the fly, and thought nothing more of it until some time afterward, when the thumb began to pain him. He then noticed that the member was beginning to swell.

The pain and swelling increased, and he slept but little that night, and next morning his whole hand and forearm were swollen.

He went to a physician, who pronounced it a case of blood poisoning and gave prompt treatment. This morning the swelling was reduced and also the pain, and it is believed that no serious results will follow.

There is no doubt that the fly, before alighting on Mr. Hall's hand, had been feasting upon some putrid substance, and but for the prompt treatment that he received blood poisoning would have followed.

The Action at Yalden.

THE COMMON COUNCIL.

Proceedings of a Special Meeting—To Look Over Monhagen Brook—Eagles and the Patrol Wagon—Other Business Transacted.

A special meeting of the Common Council was held, last evening, to consider the matter of using sanitary sewers for carrying off surface water. No action was taken on this matter, however, although there was some informal talk. All the members were present except Messrs. Baldwin and Bowler.

On motion of Mr. Greene, it was voted that members of the Council meet at the Corporation Rooms at 1 p. m., Saturday, to look over Monhagen Brook with Supervisor Bradley, of Wawayanda.

On motion of Mr. Mance the Mayor was authorized to purchase crushed stone for the walks in the park, and to repair Railroad avenue near the O. and W. freight depot.

On motion of Mr. Mance it was voted to witness a test of the deluge set recently purchased, on Saturday at 1 p. m.

A proposition of Eagle Hose Company to make alterations in the patrol wagon for the purpose of reducing its weight, was referred to the Fire Committee.

On motion of Mr. Luddington it was ordered that the gutter be paved on the west side of Low avenue, in front of the Watts and Perry properties, as soon as the curb is set.

On motion of Mr. Reed the Mayor was authorized to borrow $10,000 on the credit of the city, in anticipation of the collection of taxes.

The matter of cutting down Sprague avenue at the railroad bridge was referred to the City Engineer to report at the next meeting.

GROUND UNDER CAR WHEELS.

Terrible Death of Frank Kirk, the Day Watchman in the Shawangunk Mountain Tunnel—His Body Cut to Pieces by Many Trains.

The mangled remains of Frank Kirk, day watchman in the O. and W. Shawangunk tunnel, were found scattered along the line of the road, yesterday afternoon. The last seen of Kirk in life was about midday. The first intimation of his awful fate was when a severed foot was found on the track by the night watchman, on his going on duty late in the afternoon.

It is not known at what hour or by what train Kirk was struck, but the fact that portions of his body were found scattered throughout the tunnel, leads to the conclusion that after he was killed, train after train passed over him, grinding him out of all semblance of human shape.

Kirk was between fifty and sixty years old and his home was in Wurtsboro. He is survived by a wife and two sons. The sons are in the employment of the railroad company.

OBITUARY.

Carl Muller.

The Livingston Manor Ensign says Carl Muller, who has resided in this city for several years, and was a well known character about town, died, on Thursday last, at the house of Abe Wilson, at Old Morsston, of dropsy, aged about fifty years. The remains were interred in the cemetery at Livingston Manor, Friday.

About a year ago Muller's father died in Germany, and he inherited a considerable sum of money, a portion of which was sent to him here, the balance being left in trust for his daughter, who lives in Germany.

When he received the money, Carl bought a small farm near Livingston Manor, but soon afterwards he was taken ill with dropsy and boarded in this city until a few weeks ago, when he went to Livingston Manor.

A TRAIN'S NARROW ESCAPE.

The Susquehanna's Middletown Express Almost Run Into by a Freight.

Conductor Corwin's express train on the N. Y., S. and W. had a narrow escape from a wreck, a night or two ago. There is a single track from the junction with the Pennsylvania road to the company's shops and as the express neared the spot, where the double track begins, a freight train, coming east at a high rate of speed with a green engineer, struck the side of the rear coach tearing off a portion of the siding and careening the car very considerably. Had the collision occurred a minute sooner the results would have been serious.

Binghamton State Hospital's Electric Light Plant.

The electric light plant, just completed at the Binghamton hospital, consists of two 130 horse power engines and two 800 light dynamos. The cost of the plant was $25,000. It is proposed to spend $8,000 more on the plant and to carry the wires to the cottages on the hospital's farm in the town of Kirkwood.

The Hot Wave.

The Herald says that the hot wave may be slightly broken if an area of clouds and thunder storms now overlying Lake Erie moves far enough eastward, but enough will remain to make to-night and to-morrow hot and sultry.

During the hot weather impurities in the blood may seriously annoy you. Expel them by taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, the great blood purifier.

HYMNENAL.

Bush—Sutliff.

From our Crystal Run Correspondent.

The month of roses is essentially the month of brides and this year at least June seems to be the favorite month.

One of the prettiest wedding ceremonies which has ever occurred at Crystal Run, was that of Miss Evelyn Cecelia Sutliff, daughter of the late Webster Sutliff, of Damascus, Pa., to Mr. James Bush, travelling salesman for Durland, Thompson & Co., of Honesdale, Pa.

The ceremony was performed at the home of Mr. Andrew Crans, whose wife is a sister of the bride, by the Rev. Theron Brittain, pastor of the Presbyterian Church of Ridgebury.

At precisely 12 o'clock noon Mr. W. J. Stevens, of Middletown, began playing the Lohengrin wedding march. Then the bridal party, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Crans, Miss Ruth Alice Crans and Mr. Benjamin Tyler, entered the spacious parlor, which was handsomely decorated with roses, daisies and potted plants, and stood beneath a bridal bell of daisies, when the knot which made them man and wife was tied.

The bride was attired in a brown green bengaline and carried roses.

After the ceremony was over a choice wedding dinner prepared by Mrs. Crans was served by the Warners, of Middletown.

Mr. and Mrs. Bush received the hearty congratulations of their large circle of friends and the many beautiful presents showed what high esteem they were held by their acquaintances.

The newly married couple left on the Ontario and Western train, amid a shower of rice and old shoes, for New York, Philadelphia and Washington; the trip will take about ten days or two weeks, and on their return to Honesdale, they will immediately go to housekeeping.

Among those present from out of town were: Mrs. J. D. Bush, mother of the groom, from Honesdale, Pa., Mrs. J. S. Tyler and Miss Lizzie Hall, of Fish's Eddy, Mrs. W. F. Sherwood, of Livingston Manor, N. Y., Mrs. W. C. Tyler, and son, Webster; Mrs. Tyler and son, Benjamin; Mrs. Hood Tyler, of Damascus, Pa.; Mrs. Helen Tuttle, Mrs. Porter Tuttle and Mrs. Fred Ward, of Newark, N. J.; Miss Crane, of New York, and a large number of friends from Middletown and vicinity.

A STUDENTS' RECITAL.

The Closing Exercises of the Misses Porter's School.

The closing exercises of the Misses Porter's school on Highland avenue took place at 3 p. m., yesterday. A large number of the parents and friends of the pupils were present and we may add were well pleased with the entertainment given by the pupils.

The following programme was rendered in a manner that was alike creditable to pupils and their teachers:

Miss Kittie Iseman.

Galop d'Concert—(two pianos) ..... Milde
Misses Sloat, Beers, Iseman and Tymeson.
Vocal Solo ..... Miss Cartzdafner.

In addition to the programme, Miss Lulu Sloat sang a solo, which was admirably rendered.

It is simple justice to make especial mention of the solo of Miss Cartzdafner, the teacher of vocal music. It was the closing number and was sung so sweetly that it left a pleasant memory with all who heard it.

The Misses Porter had a large school during the past term and they and their assistants gave such good satisfaction to pupils and parents that many new pupils will be enrolled at the beginning of the next term in September.

The orchestra, which added much to the pleasure of the occasion, was composed of the following:

Mandolins — Misses Durflinger, Rockafellow, Davis and Drake.

Banjos—Misses Harrat and Gardner.

Mandolin-banjo—Messrs. Denton, Weed and Taylor.

Orr Bros', Crusher Here.

Messrs. Orr Bros', last evening, received the stone crusher for which they have waited so long. It was set up on the Wright lot at once, and this morning, was started up and is crushing stone at a rate that promises to supply the material as fast as it will be needed and we may expect to see the brick pavement pushed forward rapidly now.

for Infants and Children.

MOTHERS, Do You Know that Paregoric, Bateman's Drops, Godfrey's Cordial, many so-called Soothing Syrups, and most Remedies for children are composed of opium or morphine?

Dr. Tim Says: that opium and morphine are stupefying narcotic poisons?

Dr. Tim Says: that in many countries druggists are not permitted to sell narcotic medicines without labels?

Dr. Tim Says: that you should not permit any medicine to be given your child unless you or your physician know of what it is composed?

Dr. Tim Says: that Castoria is a purely vegetable preparation, and that a list of its ingredients is published with every bottle?

Dr. Tim Says: that Castoria is the prescription of the famous Dr. Samuel Pitcher, that it has been in use for nearly thirty years, and that more Castoria is now sold than of all other remedies for children combined?

Dr. Tim Says: that the Patent Office Department of the United States, and of other countries, have granted exclusive rights to the Proprietary and his assigns to use the word "Castoria" to the exclusion of all others in connection with a medicine?

Dr. Tim Says: that one of the essential reasons urged by the opponents of the bottle-to-bottle bill was against the provision that the formula of Castoria should be known to the family physician?

Dr. Tim Says: that fifty imitators and pretenders of Castoria are punished for fifty years, or one hundred for one year?

Dr. Tim Says: that when you consult the physician of the physician provision, your children may be kept well, and their primary interests subserved?

SHOTS HERE AND THERE

AN "ARGUS" MAN OFF DUTY AIMS AT SEVERAL SUBJECTS.

Good work by Sparrows—A New York Matrimonial Agency—A Queer Business That Has Attained Great Proportions.

It is a noticeable fact that where English sparrows are the most numerous, locusts are few in number. The inference is that the sparrows kill the locusts and if so they may be forgiven many of their offences.

The complaint made, yesterday, in a New York police court, by Herman O. Armour, a member of the great pork packing firm, of Chicago, that his daughter had been annoyed by the receipt of letters from a matrimonial agency, proffering its services in securing a husband, has led to the investigation of a business, which has grown to most astonishing proportions. The proprietor of the agency, who boasted that he had been a great many years in the business of arranging marriages, for a consideration, made no secret of the fact that he considered it perfectly legitimate to solicit business by calling the attention of ladies, young or old, whose names he could secure, to the opportunities which his agency offered for making them acquainted with men in search of wives, and acknowledged that he had sent circulars to the daughters of many of New York's best known, most prominent and wealthiest cititizens.

The most surprising fact brought out concerning the business is, however, the enormous proportions to which it has attained. The agency investigated occupies spacious and handsomely appointed quarters on Eighth avenue, and twenty young women are employed in addressing circulars and answering correspondence. There is no sentiment about marriages arranged by this concern. It's business, pure and simple, and the fees are contingent upon the fortune that the man or woman engaging the services of the agency gets with the wife or husband which it provides; and that the business seems so prosperous would seem to indicate that a great many people of moderate means are married through its kindly offices or that occasionally it gets a rake out of a big fortune. The proprietor boasted, yesterday, that he had on his books more than a hundred clients who have fortunes ranging from a paltry $200,000 to a cool $2,000,000, all of whom are of the highest respectability. There are a great many queer things in this world, but this arranging marriages by proxy is a little too queer for even the end of the century civilization to get used to. In view of the big business, which the concern of which I have been writing seems to be doing, ought not the old adage that "marriages are made in heaven" to be altered and brought up to-date by being made to read "marriages are made on Eighth avenue."

FOR WOMAN SUFFRAGE.

Arrangements for To night's Meeting at the Assembly Rooms

Dr. Pillsbury will preside at the Woman Suffrage meeting at the Assembly Rooms, to-night, and before introducing Miss Katherine Stagg, the speaker of the evening, will present in his views on the suffrage question in a brief speech.

Miss Stagg, who the Tribune says, "presents her views in a spirited way, that is both refreshing and highly interesting," may be depended on to give an address that will be well worth hearing and Miss Emma Steiner, at the piano, will favor the audience with choice musical selections.

Mrs. Vanamee, Mrs. Henry W. Wiggins and Mrs. William Millspaugh have assented to the use of their names as patronesses of the meeting.

There will be no charge for admission and every one, whether in favor of, or opposed to equal suffrage, is cordially invited to attend.

ASYLUMS SUFFER DEFEAT

The Flushings, of Long Island, Do Them Up—The Score 8 to 5.

The admirers of the Asylum ball team were somewhat surprised when the result of yesterday's game with the Flushings, of Long Island, was announced. The Asylums are so seldom beaten that a defeat was entirely unexpected.

Members of the club account for the defeat on the ground of carelessness and over confidence, bad base running and numerous errors, that ought to have been avoided. The Asylums had the opportunity to make four or five runs in the first inning, but did not take advantage of it. The Flushings are considered the strongest team that has yet been pitted against the Asylums and knew enough to take advantage of all the errors of their opponents.

Coogin, of Paterson, pitched for the Asylums in order to save Cheseboro for to-day's game at Walden, and the Flushings soon sized him up and batted his balls without difficulty.

In spite of all mistakes, however, the score was a tie, five to five, at the beginning of the ninth inning, and when the Flushings had three men on bases, Meyer made a two bagger, which brought in three men, making the score eight to five and winning the game.

OLD SCOTCH SUPERSTITIONS.

The Many Absurdities That Clung Round the Ceremony of Baptism.

Thus on the birth of a child—to begin at the beginning—it was imperative that both the mother and babe should be "sained"—that is, a fir candle was carried thrice round the bed, and a Bible, with a bannock or some bread and cheese, was placed under the pillow and a kind of blessing muttered—to propitiate the "good people." Sometimes a fir candle was set on the bed to keep them off. If the newborn showed any symptom of fractiousness, it was supposed to be a changeling, and to test the truth of this supposition the child was placed suddenly before a peat fire, when, if really a changeling, it made its escape by the "lum," or chimney, throwing back words of scorn as it disappeared. There was much eagerness to get the babe baptized lest it should be stolen by the fairies. If it died unchristened, it wandered in woods and solitary places, lamenting its melancholy fate, and was often to be seen. Such children were called "tarans."

Allan Ramsay, in his "Gentle Shepherd," describing Mause, the witch, says of her:

At midnight hours o'er the kirkyard she raves
And howks unchristened weans out of their graves.

It was considered a sure sign of ill fortune to mention the name of an "unchristened wean," and even at baptism the name was usually written on a slip of paper, which was handed to the officiating minister, that he might be the first to pronounce it. Great care was taken that the baptismal water should not enter the infant's eyes, not because such a mishap might result in wailings loud and long, but because the sufferer's future life, wherever he went and whatever he did, would constantly be vexed by the presence of wraiths and specters. If the babe kept quiet during the ceremony, the gossips mourned over it as destined to a short life and perhaps not a merry one; hence, to extort a cry, the woman who received it from the father would handle it roughly or even punch it.

If a male child and a female child were baptized together, it was held to be most important that the former should have precedence. And why? In the "Statistical Account of Scotland," the minister of an Orcadian parish explains: "Within the last seven years he had been twice interrupted in administering baptism to a female child before a male child, who was baptized immediately after. When the service was over, he was gravely told he had done very wrong, for, if the female child was first baptized, she would, on coming to the years of discretion, most certainly have a strong beard, and the boy would have none."—All the Year Round.

A Motto at a Funeral.

There are women who, if offered the choice between a matinee and a funeral, will poll a tremendous vote in favor of the funeral. The dramatic opportunity is only a negative pleasure—the trappings of woe are a positive sensation.

There is a story told that a good though eccentric dame long since gathered to her accounting, in whom this passion was abnormally developed, arrived in town from her country place one day on a shopping expedition. This lady heard of the death of a mere acquaintance and learned that if she hurried to the house she would be just in time for the funeral services. Shopping, as compared with mourning, had no charms, and the lady hastened to the house of sorrow. Now the constant traveling companion of this good woman was a brown linen atrocity in the nature of a handbag or roll. Upon this bag, embroidered in large letters by the misguided person from whom it was a gift, was a motto. Arrived at the house, our friend insisted upon having a seat as near the casket as was possible, and that achieved she placed the brown linen structure across her lap, then settled herself with a sigh of satisfaction. The letters upon the bag, held within a few feet of the deceased lady and visible to all the mourners, spelled the words, "Bon voyage."—New York Recorder.

TWENTY YEARS

OF ONE WOMAN'S LIFE

Spent With and For the Benefit of the Women of the World.

[SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS.]

One woman's work has told for good in thousands of homes throughout the world. What a record of helpfulness!

What happiness and comfort that work has brought to thousands of despairing women; what pains banished and how smooth the way was made for weary sufferers, no pen or tongue can ever tell.

Lydia E. Pinkham gave the best of her life to the women of the world, that through her the suffering of her sex might be relieved.

Her Vegetable Compound saves women from all diseases of the womb and kidneys. It has stood for twenty years against all cavil, and won the first place in the hearts of women.

Look at the picture of this New York woman, once confined to her bed by chronic female weakness, now able to follow her husband in the Adirondacks on long gunning tramps.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made this change in her life.

Just hear this one talk. It does one's heart good.

"Female sufferers, hear me!

"I was discouraged, broken-hearted. I was so ill with female trouble I could not walk or stand, and had to be assisted to my feet when arising from a chair. My head whirled, and my back ached, but worst of all was that awful crowding-down feeling in my abdomen.

"A friend of mine told me of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, her faith won mine, and now I am well. Oh! how can I return thanks to Mrs. Pinkham?

"Every woman troubled with uterus or womb troubles can be cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, for it cured me and will them."—Mrs. KERHAUGH, Juniata St., Nicetown, Pa. Every druggist has it.

AFRAID OF THE MINUET.

The Gallantry of Senator Dubois Makes Him the Butt of Funmakers.

Senator Dubois is frightfully annoyed by a story which has gained currency in the press throughout the country that he would be one of the society men who will shortly dance the minuet at a fashionable charity entertainment in this city. It all originated in a little pleasantry, but it will probably raise havoc among the senator's mining constituency in Idaho. The way the senator explains it is as follows: He was at a dinner a short time ago and was sitting next to Mrs. Carlisle.

"Of course you have heard of the charity entertainment that we are getting up," said Mrs. Carlisle. "I was just thinking you would cut a charming figure in the minuet."

Of course the rudimentary instincts of gallantry—and Mr. Dubois is a gallant gentleman—dictated a ready assent to the proposition.

"Why, I should be charmed," said the senator, with one of his most witching smiles.

The matter passed with that, and the senator thought no more of it until a number of ladies one day met him and began to felicitate themselves upon the prospect of seeing him tread the stately minuet.

The senator tried to laugh it off, but as fate would have it a designing newspaper man was within earshot, and he told a dozen of his colleagues that Dubois would dance in the minuet. From that day on the senator has had a daily installment of the story thrust under his nose in every newspaper he has taken in his hands.

"If that story gets out to Idaho," exclaimed the senator in comical despair the other day, "I shall be ruined!"

At last accounts he had left the city to weather out the storm at the home of Senator Proctor in Vermont.—Washington Post.

Church People Shocked.

Old fashioned English men and women, who, without being puritanical, like to go to church once a week with their families and spend the Sabbath decorously, have learned with something like a shock that the Prince of Wales, the Duke of York and other male members of the royal family were guests on Sunday night of Baron Alfred de Rothschild at what is described as a brilliant supper party, and which, rumor declares, was a decidedly riotous affair. Patti was there, and her husband and other stars of various firmaments, and there was singing galore, and it is whispered just a little dancing by way of added piquancy.—London Cor. New York Sun.

The Cheese Cut.

The monster cheese which was a conspicuous feature of the Canadian section of the Chicago exhibition last year has just been cut in London. It weighed 10 tons and was produced in September, 1892, under government auspices, at Perth, Ont., 207,250 pounds of milk, obtained from 12,000 cows, was used in making it. When tasted, the cheese was pronounced to be very good.—London Globe.
